

The New Landmark
of the Business Town
Royapuram

Standing erect at the banks of Bay of Bengal is the North Chennai;

A titan among the trade and commerce centers is often christened as the “Detroit of India”. Bridging sundry areas in the city, it plunks an iconic image that defines habitual folk and art of Tamil culture. Royapuram station, the first southern railway station during British rule, appends historical significance to the place. Perambur Automobile producing area, fishing harbor, Ennore port has been an abode for business expansion. Mustered with diverse shopping stops and recreation centers, North Chennai stands dainty and connotes the tenor of metropolitan city –Chennai. The next treasure to crown North Chennai is iDream Properties latest project iDream Nakshatra
